Job Analysis Worksheet

Before hiring, you need to determine what type of employee would best fit your business. Use this worksheet to determine the scope of responsibilities and the qualities needed from your employee. Once you've completed it, you can use this information to create the job description and job ad.

Job Title
Job Responsibilities Define the overall goals of the job, such as "provide administrative and bookkeeping support for the CEO."
Duties
List the day-to-day tasks involved in the job responsibilities, such as answering phone calls or creating invoices.
Required Education/Training
If the job requires professional certifications, degrees or special training, indicate them here.
Required/Preferred Experience What previous job experience is required or preferred?

continues on next page

Job Analysis Worksheet

Required/Preferred Skills
This could include specific skills, such as using Excel or QuickBooks, or general skills such as being able to type.
Required/Preferred Personality Traits
What a proper the write will half the proper do this inh hatter? Confident detail oriented at 2
What personality traits will help the person do this job better? Confident, detail-oriented, etc.?
Physical Requirements
Does the job require physical abilities, such as being able to lift a certain amount or stand for 8 hours a day?
Does the job require physical abilities, such as being able to lift a certain amount of stand for o hours a day:
Other
Note any other requirements of the job, such as frequent travel, working nights or working weekends.
There any outer requirements of the job; such as nequent during majors of working medicines.
Wages
Setting a minimum and maximum wage or salary range gives you more flexibility when negotiating.
, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,

